BRASSERIE FOUQUET'S

Like its venerable predecessor on the Champs-Élysées, founded in 1899, Fouquet's New York exudes the sophistication and historic glamour of a classic Parisian brasserie. Located on the ground floor, the restaurant is cloaked in the trademark red and black palette of Fouquet's Paris, with high-gloss wood paneling on the walls, parquet floors, curved leather banquettes, and cut-glass chandeliers. The menu at Fouquet's New York offers traditional brasserie fare similar to the Paris original — but with a New York riff.

Fouquet's Brasserie is available for private events up to 70 guests. The restaurant offers the flexibility to create the perfect configuration for your event.

BRASSERIE FOUQUET'S PRIVATE DINING ROOM

The Private Dining Room at Fouquet's New York carries the same motif with red armchairs and walls lined with wood paneling and antiqued mirrors. It is housed on the ground floor of the hotel, within the brasserie. Just as at the original brasserie, the walls are hung with black-and-white photographs of film stars by Studio Harcourt, here representing both Paris (Marion Cotillard, Alain Delon) and New York (Spike Lee, Lauren Bacall).

PAR ICI CAFÉ

Tucked discreetly into the hotel's glassed-in courtyard, Par Ici Café honors the Slow Food approach to casual dining, creating vegetarian dishes that use fresh, local, and organic ingredients to highlight the season. Enjoy colorful salads, sandwiches, pastas, and shareable plates that celebrate the bounty of the Northeast, the elegance of French technique, and the flavors of the global palate. Tribeca's red-brick façades soar above the café-like setting — a slice of Paris lifted to Downtown Manhattan.
